Background information

The Government, via the Prime Minister's Decree of 4 March 2020, simplified the conditions to apply the smart working regime (lavoro agile) to the workforce. The goal is to encourage companies to employ this job scheme to assure, when possible, business continuity.

In particular, Article 1, lett. n) of the Decree authorizes the adoption of the smart working regime without executing, with the employees, the individual agreement required by the law in normal conditions. This individual agreement contains, in general, significant dispositions steering the performance under the smart working regime, like the rules implementing the right to disconnect. Moreover, Article 1, lett. n) specifies that the informative obligations bearing on the employer according to Law No. 81 of 2017 can be fulfilled, while the measure is into force, through electronic communications.

The measure concerns all the employers, regardless their dimension or sector, and is meant to remain in power until 31 July 2020 (day in which the six-month state of emergency declared by the Government on 31 January 2020 will expire).

Furthermore, this measure affects only employees, since smart working is not applicable to other categories of workers (for instance freelancers, self-employed etc.).

Social partners, finally, have not been involved in the preparatory works of this measure.

Content of measure

Article 1, lett. n) of the Prime Minister's Decree of 4 March 2020 authorizes the adoption of the smart working regime without executing, with the employees, the individual agreement required by the law in normal conditions. This individual agreement contains, in general, significant dispositions steering the performance under the smart working regime, like the rules implementing the right to disconnect. Moreover, Article 1, lett. n) specifies that the informative obligations bearing on the employer according to Law No. 81 of 2017 can be fulfilled, while the measure is into force, through electronic communications.

All the workers that can realize their performance working remotely are eligible, provided that the employer wants to activate this scheme.
