Background information

Regional ELY Centers (Centers for Economic Development, Transport and Environment) provide various types of business services (e.g. business development aid, business environment development aid, regional transport subsidies and business development services) for Finnish companies. Companies can apply to these services as usual.

In addition to the regular forms of business services, ELY Centers now grant business development aid for small companies affected by the outbreak of COVID-19. As part of its first supplementary budget, the Government increased ELY Centers grant authorisations for business development projects by €50 million.

Content of measure

Business development aid granted by ELY Centers is available for companies that:

- 1) employ maximum 5 people at the time of applying. (Development aid for companies employing over five is available through Business Finland. Solo-self-employed are not eligible since a separate financing model is under development.)
- 2) are active in sectors other than agriculture, forestry, fisheries and agricultural products processing industry (there will be a separate financing model for these sectors)

3) experience market and production disturbances due to the outbreak of COVID-19

4) seek to renew and strengthen their expertise

Business development aid can be granted either for conducting a situation analysis or carrying out development measures.

Aid granted for conducting a situation analysis covers up to 80% of the costs with a maximum amount of €10,000. Aid granted for carrying out development measures covers up to 80% of the costs with a maximum amount of €100,000.
