Background Information

Decree Law No. 18/2020 of 17 March 2020 set a legal framework for the suspension of payments of tax deductions, social security and welfare contributions, and insurance premiums for compulsory insurance for work-related accidents (INAIL) until 30 April 2020. The measures are differentiated according to the economic sector, the size and location of the company, and aimed at sustaining specific sectors and workers (such as national sport federations, theaters and cinemas, pubs and restaurants, and domestic workers) that are considered most affected by the Covid-19 crisis. The decree extends measures already introduced by Decree Law No. 9/2020 of 2 March 2020 for tourist-accommodation businesses, travel and tourism agencies and tour operators (art. 8).

Content of measure

The terms for the payment of tax deductions, social security and welfare contributions, and contributions to the compulsory insurance for work related accidents are suspended until the end of May payable by domestic employers, which are to be carried out by June 10 (art. 36), as well as for some production sectors and companies most affected from the emergency, to be carried out starting from May (art. 61). Among the production sectors and companies included are culture, tourism, entertainment, sports, fairs, management of transport services, management of bus and railway stations, subways, maritime or airport, games and bets, spas, amusement parks, catering and canteens, educational services, event organizers. Beyond these sectors, the suspension is granted to companies with an amount of revenues not exceeding 2 million euros.
