Background Information

Mémorial A 178 du 24 mars 2020) and this in activity sectors that are essential for the well functioning of the economy during the COVID-19 crisis. The aim of this measure is to ensure the well functioning of vital economy sectors.

Content of measure

With the objective to counter the current COVID-19 crisis, the government decided to suspend the trial clause in the following types of contract arrangements: permanent employment contracts (CDI); fixed-term employment contracts (CDI); apprenticeship contracts; assignment contracts.

Nonetheless, the measure is limited and applies to companies and their employees affected by the closure of governmental decisions, or to companies and their employees admitted to short-time working in the event of a force majeure due to Covid-19.

The trial period is suspended from the effective date of the government decision taken on 18 March 2020 or the admission of the employee concerned in the special short-time working scheme.

The remaining portion of the trial period is to be resumed the day after the end of the state of crisis.
