Case created	08 April 2020

Background Information

The activities in the sector arts, entertainment and recreation are now among the most jeopardized because concerts, theaters and other cultural events are being cancelled or postponed due to the outbreak of the disease. Around 25% of persons active in the sector are self-employed or independent artists, without adequate institutional support, so for them the situation is very demanding. Furthermore, there are many single-person owned companies which are also very vulnerable to current situation.

Content of measure

Over 1,300 persons, most of whom are freelancers or independent authors in the sector arts and entertainment signed an appeal for urgent assistance which they need to overcome the current situation caused by the outbreak of the crisis. Such situation affects creative industries, notably freelancers and precariously employed professionals in that sector. The Ministry of Culture allows emergency payments from HRK 1,625 (€ 217) to HRK 3,250 (€ 433) net a month to independent artists whose contributions are paid from the budget of the Republic of Croatia and who can prove that due to special circumstances they have been prevented or significantly impeded from performing artistic activities. The said emergency payment is planned for three months.

Use of measure

The Ministry of Culture invites professional associations and representatives of specific sectors in the field of culture, who will be particularly affected by the social and economic consequences of the epidemic, to integrate all analyzes and preliminary estimates and submit them to the Ministry. The government is preparing a proposal for measures for entrepreneurs who will be able to prove the losses incurred in the context of the epidemic. Given the diversity of artistic fields, the Ministry of Culture calls on all professional associations and representatives of the independent cultural sector, in times of crisis identified as particularly fragile, to submit impact assessments so that the proposed measure is as accurate as possible and adapted to all segments of the independent cultural sector and their creators. Probably around 1000 people will demand financial support from the Ministry.
